

Boston

Seaport District

Vertical Dance Troupe Bandaloop to Perform in Boston's Seaport District

They're performing at a grand opening celebration for a new building at Fan Pier.

By Matt Juul | Arts & Entertainment | June 9, 2016, 8:33 a.m.

MG 1645 BY DBKING ON FLICKR / CREATIVE COMMONS

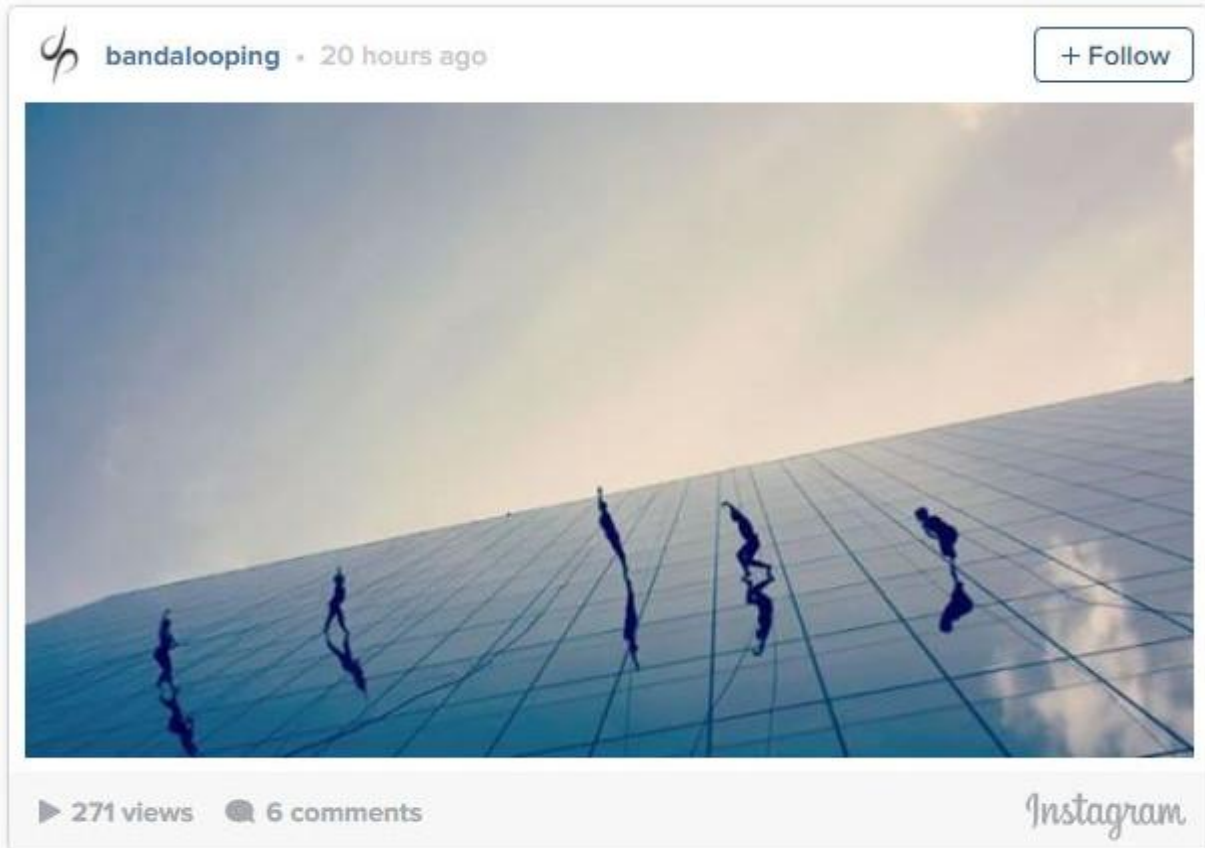

Dancers will scale a 17-story building in Boston's Seaport district for a high-flying performance on Thursday evening.

The vertical dance troupe Bandaloop is in town to help officially open the Fallon Company's new, 534,000-square-foot tower at 100 Northern Avenue. The latest development, which will house the office of Goodwin Procter LLP., is a big milestone as it's the fifth building to be completed at Fan Pier.

The Fallon Company

Bandaloop will join Mayor Marty Walsh, Fallon Company president and CEO Joseph F. Fallon, as well as Goodwin Procter Partner and Chair of Boston Office Andy Sucoff for Thursday's grand opening celebration.

Earlier this week, the aerial dance group practiced some of their awe-inspiring moves on the waterfront building's glass façade.

The Fallon Company

icaboston · 17 hours ago

+ Follow

▶ 1,628 views 💬 30 comments

Instagram

The Fallon Company

shamonpr · 1 day ago

+ Follow

♥ 18 likes 💬 1 comment

Instagram

The grand opening festivities will kick off with a speaking program at 5 p.m., followed by a performance by Bandaloop at 5:30 p.m.